

Introducing 'The Enterprising Community'

The first book to be published on social enterprise from a bottom up perspective and by someone with first-hand experience of founding and managing social enterprises in Waterford city and county.

Voluntary community project leaders, managers, directors and team members would certainly gain from reading it.

A Bottom Up Perspective On The Capacity Within Communities To Regenerate

€20 each

Order Now

Email: theenterprisingcommunity@gmail.com

or Phone Senan Cooke: 087-2228374

It is strongly recommended by Dublin City University and endorsed by a range of community project managers and agency leaders.

“The book addresses a critically important issue for Irish Society today, that of social entrepreneurship and provides readers with a roadmap for the development and enrichment of communities throughout our country and beyond”

Professors
Gerry McNamara & Joe O Hara,
Dublin City University.

Centre for Evaluation,
Quality & Inspection

“As a community, we in DCU would argue that Ireland has a natural affinity with social enterprise. Indeed, we believe that we can become leaders in the development of social enterprise at a European level over the next decade”

President
Brian MacCraith,
Dublin City University.

Ollscoil Chathair
Bhaile Átha Cliath
Dublin City University